A PICTURE

From The Pioneer, 1920

Imagine a picture of a senior's aggravating grip
Just packed ready for the homeward trip.
If it belongs to a lady I've nothing to say
To see in it you must use an X-ray.

This one we will say belongs to a him
So it will do no harm to peep within.
Well its contents would surely make you laugh.
See those socks! Nothing left but the upper half.

A pair of old shoes. The heels need adjusting.
A hat and a coat worn thin by constant dusting;
Shirts you must wear three at a time,
Or they will show through to the rind.

When this grip left home four years ago,
Its contents made a very fancy show;
For it was new, and the duds were the same
It had many things it won't do to name.

Human thoughts yield to every kind of passion;
We follow every fad if it be the latest fashion
This was a condition of mind, a lack of knowledge,
That was all changed at Carver Chiropractic College.

Our fads and fancies were all left behind;
We took up science to improve the mind;
We've studied the flesh, the blood, the bone;
Now we are ready to go back home.

In this bag there is a parchment tied in a roll
The hope of his life, the find of his soul;
Large fancy letters at the top spell DIPLOMA,
From Carver Chiropractic College, State of Oklahoma.

THE PIONEER

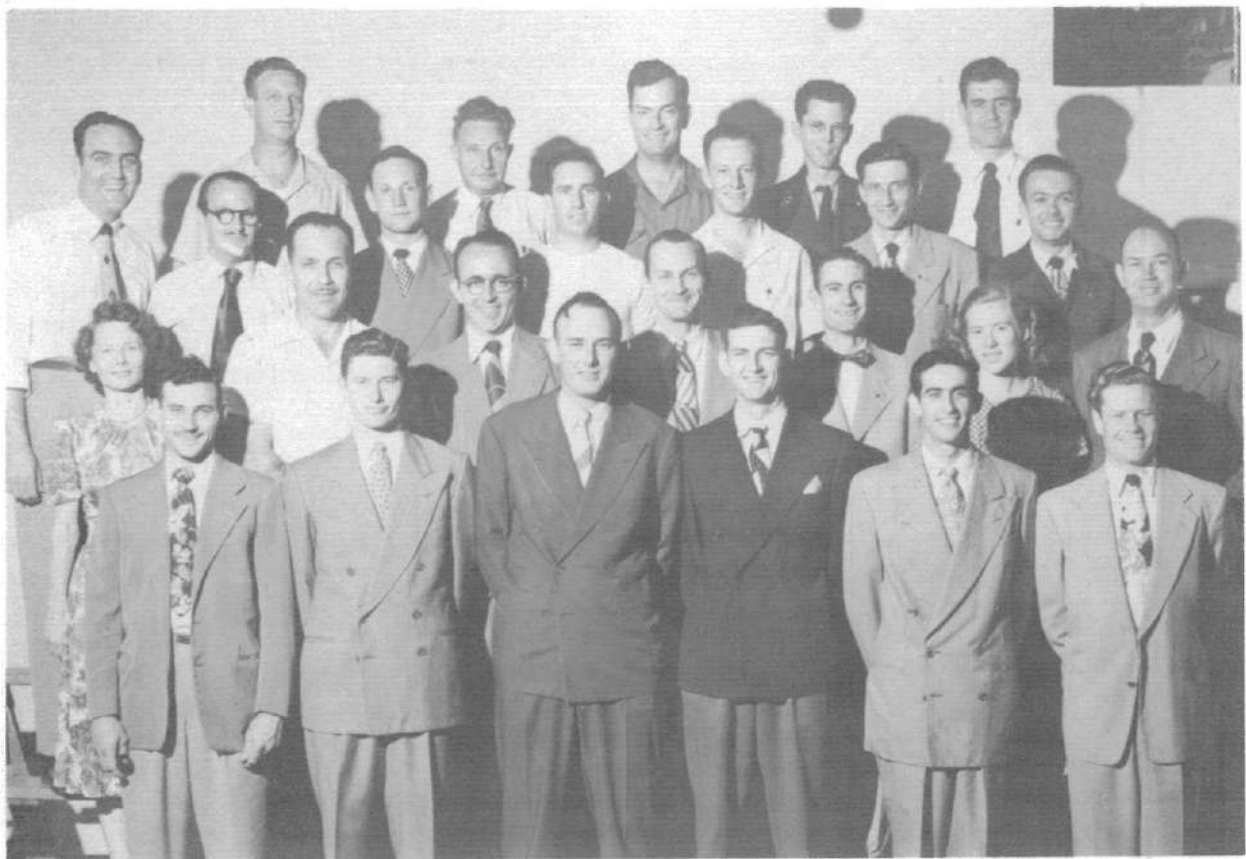

The 1949 summer graduating class desiring a book in which many memories of college life would be recorded started a movement from which this edition of The Pioneer developed. The staff hopes that their work will be carried on and that a new Pioneer will be published as each class graduates.

THE RECORD

"I move we elect an editor and publish a school paper," and with these words before the student association meeting Jack Murray started the publication once again of The Record. With the cooperation of the faculty the monthly publication grew and beginning with the May issue was printed in large quantities so that copies could be mailed to Alumni and other persons interested in the school.

WILLARD CARVER CHAPTER OF THE JUNIOR NATIONAL CHIROPRACTIC ASSOCIATION

Founded March 5, 1947, the Willard Carver Chapter of the Junior N.C.A. was organized with 72 members, then a majority of the students attending Carver Chiropractic College.

Dr. H. J. Lynch, Oklahoma N.C.A. delegate and a member of the Jr. N.C.A. committee, gave invaluable advice and assistance in organizing the chapter and is due much credit for the birth and activity of the chapter. The chapter has taken an active part in the student activities of Carver College and has aided in the securing of privileges which are not accorded students at all other colleges.

Among other missions of the chapter is the teaching of cooperation and the value of working together with graduates of other schools to advance the profession. This includes state and national projects.

Now in its third year, the local chapter has just elected new officers and is engaged in an aggressive membership campaign, planning more educational meetings with speakers from practicing graduates of several colleges, which it is hoped will aid in advancing a spirit of cooperation for the good of the individual and the advancement of our profession.

GAMMA ALPHA RHO FRATERNITY

In the year of our Lord Nineteen Hundred Twenty, a group of male Carver Chiropractic students met for the purpose of organizing a Greek letter Fraternity. From this meeting the Gamma Alpha Rho Fraternity was formed and became a Chartered Organization incorporated under the laws of Oklahoma on February 21, 1921.

During the years from 1940 to 1945 the fraternity members dwindled to a limited few and at this time its lowest ebb was felt. In 1946 Henry Stahr was chosen President and under his supervision the membership progressed to a new peak and the activities of the fraternity once again spread throughout the college.

Allen Peterson became the next President and during his term the constitution was revised. Joe Ashworth was our next President and he turned attention toward social functions and at this time the tradition of a dance and banquet was begun, the first being a memorable one at Cedar Terrace.

Many other social functions and business matters were carried on by those who followed President Ashworth. They included: Jack McMinn, Richard Shipman, James Purdom, James Locklar, Ervin Hefner, and Haskell Locklar who is now doing a fine job of living up to the standards of leadership laid down by those before him.

Front Row: Priscilla Hefner Geneva Ward, Eileen Engen, Frances de Gale, Kathryn Wilson, Louella Shanahan.
 Second Row: Ruth Vickers, Bettye Shipman Anna Fox, Lorraine Clemings, Louella Shanahan.

PSI GAMMA PI SORORITY

The Psi Gamma Pi Sorority was granted its charter on August 16th, 1921.

During the war, like many other groups, the sorority was dormant, but in 1946 again became an active part of college life.

At present there are 24 paying members with several honorary members taking active interest.

Apart from the usual social activities, during the last few years we have sent parcels to Europe and made drapes for the new clinic waiting room. A first aid class for members was organized and we were lucky enough to have Dr. Dona Jenkins as instructor.

No special project has been planned for the summer but we hope to start some constructive work early in the fall.

Second Row: Horace Hackner, Kenneth Paul, Bernd Osborg.

SOUTH AFRICAN STUDENT CHIROPRACTORS ASSOCIATION

The S.A.S.C.A. which is now rapidly shrinking, was first formed in 1946 by a group of nine South African students then attending the college.

At the height of its activities it comprised 11 students and one or two honorary members.

The group banded together with the intent to create cooperation and better understanding of our own very special problems and at the same time to become a nucleus of a new and streamlined professional body at home.

In order to promote these projects on a wider basis the Carver group linked up with similar groups at the National College of Chiropractic and the Lincoln Chiropractic College. The association exchanged ideas and data about its members, but never at any time was it a rigid

However the association was duly recognised by the professional organisation in South Africa and also received provisional approval by the N.C.A.

Activities: presentation of films on South Africa to students and outside visitors.
Purchase of Dr. Dunn's film on Infantile Paralysis for use in South Africa.
Dispatch of letters to prominent personalities and legislators in South Africa in an effort to negate a proposed bill to leave Chiropractic out of the recognised healing arts.
(The bill was tabled; maybe we had something to do with it.)

Advertisement is the secret of success. We may not hope to succeed without it. Even in so small a matter as laying an egg, an old hen in very pronounced manner advertises the fact.

The person that does something worth while but says nothing about it, might almost as well not have done it. That is more true now than it has been at any other period of the World's history of which we have any accurate account.

The time has come, and now is, when it is not sufficient to do a thing, and do it with all your might, and do it well, but when you have done all of these you must find some way to let the world know that you do that thing, and that you do it well, that the world also may enjoy the fruits of your labour with you.

There is no value to be had by putting your light under a bushel; you have to let your light shine; and the problem of this age is now to make your light shine far out into the darkness to let others know that you are capable of doing the things that you have capacity to do.

One mistake that this institution has always made, has grown out of the fact that its faculty has been so busy in the accomplishment of meritorious work, and continual concentrated effort to raise the standard of actual accomplishment, that it has not paid enough attention to making its light shine out into the darkness around it. From this on, so far as the Dean of this faculty is concerned, as much attention is going to be given to the problem of making the light shine, as is given to the problem of accurate, specific, valuable work.

Last year an innovation on advertising was introduced, by the student body for this institution, upon their own motion and to the utter surprise of at least that part of the faculty that is now addressing you, in the production of an annual.

I admit, with some shame, that it had never crossed my mind that an annual, for an institution of this kind and size, was a possibility. I knew that the great universities of the country got up some kinds of books each year that were tokens of remembrance among the students; but for this institution to do anything of the kind, had never occurred to me as possible, because I was so busy with constructive thought along scientific lines, as never to have given the subject a moment's consideration.

The students forced this matter upon my attention. The moment they did so I knew it was a good thing and should have the utmost enthusiastic support and co-operation of the entire faculty. The annual was published. It is a credit to any University in the country. It is as meritorious in every respect as was the annual for the same period, of the University of this State. It is an unusual book, and unusual document and attracts attention wherever it is.

Just to test that matter, I took one of them with me to The Roycrofters at East Aurora, New York, and went back to that wonderful reading room which has been the meeting place of the most intellectual persons that grace our earth at this time, formerly presided over by that seer of modern thought, Elbert Hubbard. Upon a table in a little niche in which there lies a large number of books, leather bound, very largely illustrated for the purpose of entertainment of travellers that do not care to read, but do wish to read pictures, and without saying a word about the annual, I just laid one down and walked out.

About two months afterwards I received a letter from Felix Shay, Editor of the Fra, saying that he had received the catalogue of this institution and had looked it over with very much interest - the catalogue was left in the literature upon the table - and that he wished to congratulate this school upon one of the most remarkable annuals that had come under his eye for the last year.

If an annual would attract the attention of Felix Shay and cause him to sit up and take notice, how many persons would such a book, properly placed in a library attract, and then if in addition to a library, it was placed in the leading libraries of the United States, which would only cost a few dollars, what a wonderful source of advertising of a college such a book would be.

An annual cannot be published by a college. It can only be published by students of an institution. It is of that character that the faculty could not publish it if they desired to, nor could edit it. It must be done by the enthusiastic co-operation of a student body.

Now, I understand that you are contemplating an annual for this year, and I wish to assure you that I highly recommend it, and that I shall personally do all I can towards its propagation, and shall render you any assistance in my power.

Now what should be done, is for each student of this institution to give the scheme of the production of this annual his unqualified support, and if there is any advertising matter that he can possibly throw in the way, or bring in, he should not hesitate to throw or bring it, at whatever reasonable cost and expense of time and effort on his part and to do so cheerfully and gladly.

The advertising work of the world to a large extent must be free. Men that publish newspapers and magazines and charge these stupendous prices, as we view it, for their space; nevertheless do more than fifty per cent of their advertising work absolutely free of charge. Fifty per cent of the work that goes into the production of such news papers, or such magazines, is absolutely free work. We frequently do not consider how much it costs to produce a medium through which we may speak to the world. How much of an effort, concentration and continual expense goes with that kind of production.

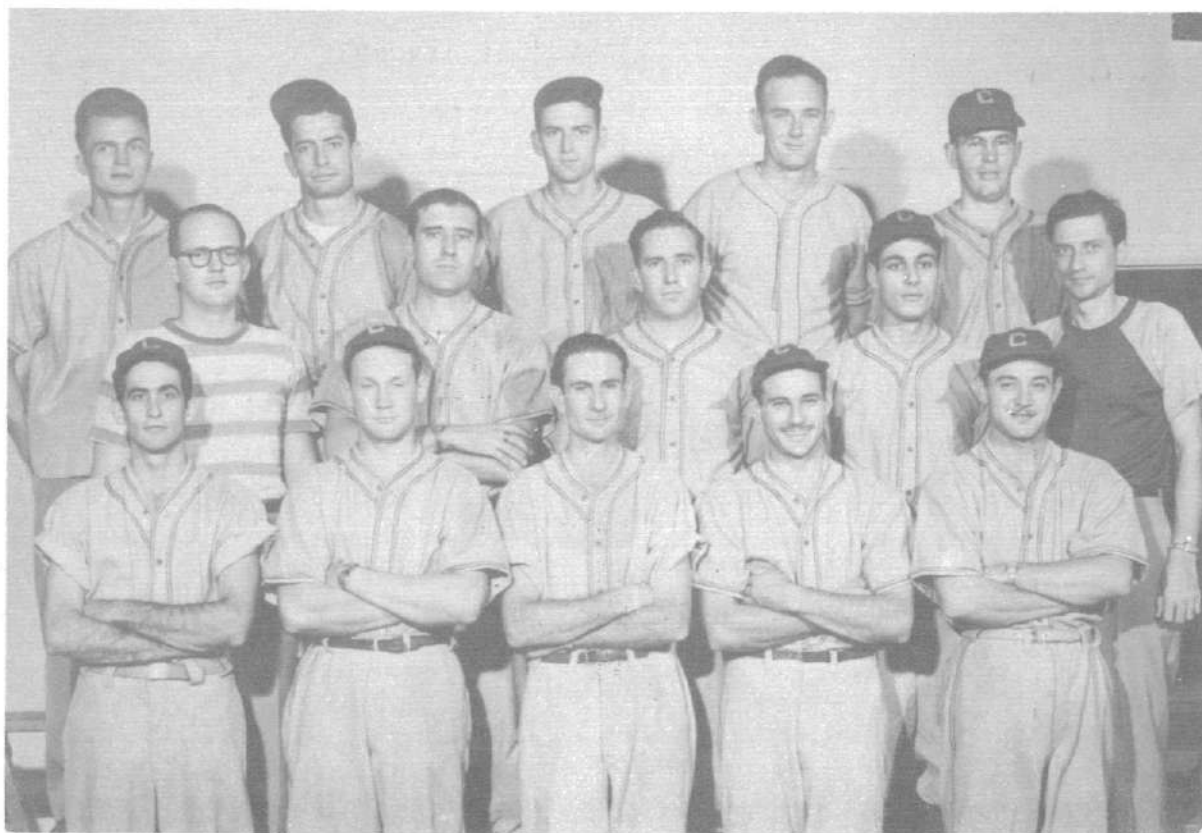

You write to a magazine for prices of advertising, they tell you that they charge you, twenty-five, fifty, one hundred, two hundred or five hundred dollars a page, etc., and you stop and just grossly look at that sum and say that such charge is perfectly ridiculous; but when you stop and think of the effort that medium has cost, you will see that, at that price the person or institution conducting the magazine or paper are doing, at least, half of the work without charge.

Now I shall hope that this student body, which has been the most harmonious body that we have had, will each put a shoulder to the wheel and push the proposition of this annual through and make it, if any difference, exceed in beauty and tasteful arrangement, the annual that we had last year; and the only real objection to the scheme that I can see now is that the annual last year was so good that it will be difficult to beat it this year.

SOFTBALL

Front Row: Haskell Locklar, Ken Paul, Ervin Hefner, Jack Irely, Elba Strong.
 Second Row: Coach Robert E. Loftus, Jerry Austin, John Henry, Louis Santelli,
 Manager Richard Shipman. Third Row: Bob Engen, Wallace Duncan, Melvin Blinn, Captain Bill Fox, Blaine Donley.

At the beginning of the season about 30 men assembled to organize a softball team. With the help of Coach Loftus the team was narrowed to 15 men. Practice was slow due to the fact that the team members were working and serving internship in the school clinic. After the league began the team settled down and worked hard. Some heart breaking ball games were lost, but Carver ended the first round of play in 4th place. The next round of play was a repeat performance with Carver winning 4 and losing 3 placing the team in the playoffs for league championship.
